

Dr Christine McIntosh

BSc, MBChB, Dip. Paed, Dip Obs.&Gyne., FRNZCGP

Christine is a General Practitioner with a special interest for child health. She works in an area of a high SUDI mortality in South Auckland, New Zealand. She was initially involved with SUDI research, looking at the vulnerability of the infant airway, working with Dr Shirley Tonkin. From 2012 she worked with Dr Adrian Trenholme on a trial of the Pepi-Pod® programme in South Auckland. She is now working with Ed Mitchell and John Thompson on the co-design of the Safe Sleep Calculator in Primary Care.
