

Maria Luisa Tejada de Rivero Sawers holds a medical degree from the University of Geneva, Switzerland. She worked as an obstetrician and gynecologist at the University Hospitals of Geneva, with a special interest in cross-cultural consultations and psychologically or socially vulnerable groups. She is currently finishing her MSc in Public Health at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine. She advocates for sexual and reproductive health with a focus on perinatal loss, stillbirth and abortion. She is a member of the Stillbirth Advocacy Working Group. She lives in Mexico with her husband and 2 sons. She is also a mother to Pablo who was stillborn on July 30th 2010.